

Vladimír Šulc graduated Czech Technical University in Prague, Faculty of Electrical Engineering, in 1992. He is preparing now his dissertation 'Microelectronics wireless networks for telemetry and building automation' as PhD candidate at Brno Technical University, Czech Republic.

Vladimir Sulc is a founder and CEO of MICRORISC, working from 1991 on many projects related to wireless communication and security. He specializes in LR-WPAN, mesh networking algorithms and encoding. Author or co-author of over 20 patents in CZ, EU, US.

As a leader of several projects granted mainly by Czech Ministry of Industry and Trade he is actively working on projects related to his specialization: Open Wireless communication platform, Smart House - open platform, Automatic Enumeration and Identification System, Open Platform for Telemetry.

Vladimír Šulc has been active in IARIA conferences since 2009. Paper 'IQRF Smart House - A Case Study ' presented at MESH 2010 was awarded by Best Paper Award.